Explanation of Sundry Articles of the above Table.

(a.) Victual, and all other articles in this table, whether in greater or less quantities than those specified therein, are to pay Custom in proportion to the rates above charged.

(b.) Every person, being a burgess or freeman of this Burgh, upon giving his oath, (if required by the Tacksman or Customer) that the meal, grain, or other vivres brought in by him, or for his account, did not come to Town to be sold, but was really and truly bought and agreed for, before coming to Town, for the owner's private use, shall, in that case, be free of any custom; and the pawn or poind that may have been taken therefor, by the customer, shall be immediately restored by him. But strangers, or unfreemen, shall pay full custom for all such articles, although they may have been bought, or brought into town, for their own private use and consumption.

(c.) Oats, pease, beans, or other grain, having paid Custom on being brought to Town, whether by sea or land, is not liable in any additional or second Custom, on being manufactured at any of the Town's mills, and afterwards sold or used in Town; and all grain, victual, and every other article contained in the above Table, brought to Town by fresh water carriage, pays the same Custom as when brought in by land.

(d.) All wet, or fresh, and unsalted fish, are exempted from the payment of any Custom.

All meal brought into Town by freemen bakers, to be manufactured by them into bread, for sale within the Town, is only to be liable for the toll or small custom, in terms of an act of the Town Council, of date the 26th of November, 1757, being one third of a penny sterling the Boll.

All meal, grain, and every other article passing through the Town—if the proprietor, or person having the charge thereof, shall produce sufficient documents, or make oath, if desired, that the same is really in transitu, and not for sale, or to be used in Town, is not to be liable in the payment of any Custom. And all meal brought to the Town for the use of the Infirmary, Gordon's Hospital, or the Charity Workhouse, is also to be exempted from the payment of Custom.

The Tacksman shall have no right to demand Custom for any goods whatever, brought to any of the Town's four Yearly Markets, in case of their being revived. And if the Council shall think necessary to bring meal or grain to the Town, by sea or land, for the supply of the Inhabitants, the Tacksman shall have no title to any Custom for the same.

All claims for Custom of every kind exigible by this Table shall be made immediately on the several articles being brought to Town; and if not sued for and established within three months thereafter, they shall be held to be proscribed, and shall not be actionable by the Tacksman, or other person entitled to make the same.

In case the Tacksman or Customer shall detain any pawn or poind wrongfully, after it shall be ascertained that no Custom is due for the article in question, he shall incur and pay a penalty of Twenty Shillings sterling to the person who complains against him.—And, on the other hand, persons giving to the Customer a false account of any articles they are bringing to the Town, liable in the payment of Custom, concealing the same, or taking a bye-road for the purpose of evading the payment of Custom, shall forfeit and pay a like penalty of Twenty Shillings sterling, to the Tacksman or Customer, to be inflicted in both cases, upon a complaint, made and proved by the several parties, before any of the Magistrates.

When pounds are taken for the payment of Custom, and not redeemed within a month by the owners thereof, the Tacksman or Customer may sell the same, by Warrant of the Magistrates of Aberdeen, without farther notice. But he shall be obliged forthwith to consign with the Town Clerk the overplus of the price, (if any be) after deducting the necessary charges, in order to be returned to the Owner, when he calls for it.

LASTLY.—The Council appoint the Tacksman or Customer for the time, and the servants to be employed by him in collecting the said Customs, always to carry about with them a copy hereof; to be produced, if required, to every person from whom they collect, under the penalty of Twenty Shillings sterling, to be paid by them to the Procurator Fiscal, and disposed of as the Magistrates shall direct. And the Council farther ordain the foregoing Table, with the above explanation thereof, to be fully engrossed in the Council Register, for preservation; and copies thereof to be printed and published, for the information of all concerned.

ABSTRACT OF THE PRESENT CORN LAWS.

FOREIGN corn, wheat-meal, or flour, and oatmeal, may always be imported, bonded, and (as well as British) exported, without payment of any duty, or may be entered for Home Consumption at any time, subject to the annexed duties, regulated by the aggregate average prices, which are to be published every Thursday, and forthwith sent to the various Custom-Houses. They are formed from returns of Sales, by Imperial Measure, of British and Irish Corn, received from 150 towns in England and Wales the six preceding weeks.

The Import for Home Consumption into Great Britain and Ireland, of malt, and all ground corn, except wheat-meal, flour, and oatmeal, is prohibited.

If any Foreign State shall subject British vessels, produce, or goods, to higher duties than are levied on their own National vessels, or the goods of other countries imported in their National vessels, an Order in Council may be issued, to prohibit the import of corn, &c. from such State.

Corn, wheat-meal, flour, oatmeal, linseed, rapeseed, and cloverseed, may be brought from any port in Europe, in British vessels, or in ships of the country of which they are the produce, or in ships of the country from whence they are imported; but from Holland, in Dutch vessels, 20  $\frac{1}{2}$  cent. additional duty must be paid.

All shipments of grain and flour from British possessions out of Europe, after three months from the 15th July, 1828, must be accompanied by a Certificate from the chief officer of the customs of the port from whence shipped, stating that the owner or shipper thereof has made a declaration, in writing, that the corn so shipped, specifying the quantity and description thereof, was the produce of the British possession out of Europe to be named therein; and the captain must produce a copy of the owner's or shipper's declaration, certified by the collector or chief officer of the customs, at the port of shipment, to be a true copy of the owner's declaration, before making entry at the place of Importation; and further, that the cargo is the same referred to in the declaration and certificate, without any admixture or addition. Any false statement respecting the place or identity of corn, &c. subjects the party making it to a penalty of One Hundred Pounds, and the cargo to be forfeited.
